10th February 2017

Message from Head teacher: Following such a successful Online Safety Day across school we rearranged our online safety meeting this Friday to include contributions from all classes. If you were unable to attend please use our website, click on the online safety tab followed by guidance for parents to find how to keep your child safe online. Wishing you all a restful half term. We already have lots planned for next half term including launching a pasty into space—seriously! If you have any questions on this, please ask Mr Wilde. He tells me we will be the first school in the South West to launch something into space and that it will be the first pasty in space.
